NOTE.—The Catalogue of Coins has been hastily prepared, and are perhaps not as well described as they would have been by the veterans in the art—Cogan, Woodward, and Strobridge; and the owners would prefer that parties wishing to purchase should examine for themselves the condition of the pieces.

Among the collection will be found some of the finest specimens of American coins and medals.

The collection of paper money is decidedly the finest ever offered for public competition. The Massachusetts collection is considered the best in existence, and contains many very rare and unique specimens. It is, in fact, the selection from three fine collections. The condition of the bills is generally fine.

The collection of Autographs is the property of Dr. J. H. Griscom, and contains many rare and valuable Autograph Letters, collected with much care and attention.

Orders to purchase can be executed by E. Cogan, 101 William Street, New York; W. Elliot Woodward, Roxbury, Mass.; A. C. Kline, 812 Walnut Street, Philadelphia; W. H. Strobridge, 101 William-street, New York, and by the Auctioneers.

Book Trade Sale Rooms, 498 Broadway, N. Y.,
NEARLY OPPOSITE THE ST. NICHOLAS HOTEL.

The advantageous location and commodious arrangement of these Rooms, present unusual facilities for the disposal of all kinds of literary property by auction.

W. ELLIOT WOODWARD'S

SEMI-ANNUAL SALE OF

RARE COINS AND MEDALS,

In the Month of December next.

MT. PLEASANT, ROXBURY, MASS., Oct. 24, 1865.

TO COIN COLLECTORS:

I beg to announce that I have now in press, and hope to have ready for distribution by the 20th of November, the Catalogue of my seventh semi-annual New York sale.

This sale, though not so extensive as some of my former ones, will, nevertheless, commend itself to the favorable attention of collectors, being very rich in the several departments.

In the Washington series will be found some of my most desirable pieces, including the cents of 1791 and 1792; the half dollars, two varieties; the funeral medals, a large variety in gold, and silver, and bronze, &c.

In the Colonial series will be found the finest known "Non Vi Virtute Vice," with fine specimens of the Carolina piece. Immunei, and Immunis Columbia, several varieties; full sets of Baltimore and Annapolis money; two varieties of the rare Kentucky pieces, in silver and bronze, one never before offered here, and known in only one collection; two unique Fugios; the very rare Rosa Americana, with rose on a bush, known in but one American collection; two types of the Higley copper, and many others scarcely less desirable.

Of the regular issues of the mint, many very excellent things will be offered, particularly in the gold series.

Owing to the greatly increased expense of printing, the number of Catalogues printed will be very small, and but one copy can be sent to one address, and they can be furnished only to collectors.

Price Forty Cents.

Collectors in New York City and vicinity can procure Catalogues of Edward Cogan, Esq., who has recently removed from Philadelphia to 101 William Street, New York, or by addressing the undersigned,

W. ELLIOT WOODWARD.
